Republican State Convention. The Republican State Convention meets at Military Display at the State Fair.

The several Military Companies at Madison have gone to a deal of pains and expense to fit up appropriate quarters and make all necessary arrangements for receiving and entertaining their Military brethren from other parts of the State, during the Fair next week. The accomdepression of the Winter and Spring, nor money become plenty enough, to make men feel disposed for a pleasure jaunt of this sort. Yet as the expense will be quite moderate, the exhibition very attractive, the two or three days' military training valuable, and the prospect for a pleasant and profitable trip exceedingly good, we think the inducements sufficiently strong to the same and the nanonecement of their capital to the whole continent of America, including the Empire State of the West, our beautiful Wisconsin, where they have opened shops for the sale of life assurance to the natives.

The success which has hitherto attended similar operations in the same line has no doubt warrant an extra effort to get up a Military representation from this city. Of course, whatever is to be dose, in this matter, must be done quickly. To be in season for the encampment our Military companies should leave here by the 11.00 Express train on Tuesday morning. THAT DODGE AGAIN. - The Ochkosh Courier, a LARRABER organ, in speaking of the Judge's effort, save :

He stated that he had invited Mr. Billing-nurse to canvass the district with him; that they might debate togother the subjects on which the two parties are now at issue, but that Mr. B. had not returned a definite answer. As the Republican Convention had not seen fit to adopt any platform, or to indicate in any other way what it was they were contending about way what it was they were contending about, there was not much prospect of his being able to bring the enemy to close quarters. He did not like to be fighting wind mills, and hoped that Mr. B. would, after consultation with his friends, meet him before the people. In this hope, the Judge, we fear, will be disappointed. Billingsourse has already above the white feather; he knows his man, and will be very clear of meeting him on the stump.

The bantling which has just made its appearance among us may have been conseived but probably had not yet been brought forth at that time, for it was not there. It has come and it is among us, and as we karn from Dr. Lary, the general special and traveling agent of this offering of the older Ætne, we suppose they will establish agencies in every town in the State of Wisconsie as also in her sister States, the trai-State, during the Fair next week. The success which has hitherto attended sin-ilar operations in the same line has no doubt prompted this last financial movement of the money kings of New England. They evidently regard us as a very simple minded people who may be duped and guiled by any plausible scheme, if it be only introduced under the cancilou of great names and pourpous placards. The intro-duction of this new scheme of our eastern lined; is certainly a piece of the collect input. duction of this new scheme of our eastern friends is certainly a piece of the coolest impudance we have lately met with; to sak the citizens of Wisconsin at this day to purchase life nesurance from a joint stock company, is supremely ridiculous. The proprietary system in this business is under any circumstance behind the times, and the attempt to revive it here. shows how largely the monor kings of the east calculated upon our guilbility. Suppose this company hes all the capital she claims to have, to wit: $200,000, still those who are best informed in these matters consider it a sum per feetly comtemptible as the guarantee fund of a proprietary company on the continent of America.

The Democratic Policy for Kansas. It has become more apparent to the Sentinel now, than ever before, that the national demo-tratic party are determined to keep Kansas out of the Union for some years to come, to punish her for free sepirations. We need only refer our renders to the efforts made last winter to get Kansas into the Union, to prove that the Sentinel's charge is without foundation. The administration and its friends labored zeslously to bring Kansas into the Union, and were hitterly oppose. Kansas into the Union, and were bitterly opposite ed by all the republicans in Congress, who then maintained that the measure was premature—Now, after Congress has adjourned, and before another application can be made, they accuse the administration of keeping Kansas out of the Union. The charge in false Union. The cherge is false. Only one applica-tion has been made by Kanass for admission, since Mr. Buchanan assumed the administration since Mr. Buchanan assumed the admicistration of the general government, and it is well known that the Precident interested himself warmly in her bebalf. When Kansas shall again apply for admission into the Union, it will be time to accuse the democratic party of a determination to keep her out of the Union; if they deny her admission; but not till then. There has been too much haste in making the preparation for bringing Kansas into the Union.—News of yesterdry. The admission is estimificant. It seems to the

The admission is significant. It seems to show that the News is prepared, or preparing, to take side with Buchayan and the National Democracy, against the admission of Kansas, until she has the requisite Federal population. No doubt the News reflects in this the sentiment of the Party in Wisconsin, and of their candidates for Congress, Messis Brown, Duan and Larrabee, It is true, as the News cleims, that M.r Buch. Political Speaking,

On Friday evening, the two candidates for Congress in this District, addressed a large audience at the Court House in this city. Had we copies of the speeches and space in our columns to spare, we would gaidly lay them entire better our readers. But having neither we must content ourselves with but a slight notice of the positions of the two gentlemen as drawn from sitions of the two gentlemen, as drawn free their remarks.

Mr. Dunn opened the discussion, in a very presty speech of an hour and a quarter, in which he pletured in a very eleguent manner, the great principles up.n which this government was formed, and what was, in the early history of our country, comidered Democracy; but nev-er for a moment alluded to the political issues hafter the needs of the residual issues before the people of a later period.

Mr. Washburn followed Mr. Dunn, speaking the same length of time, showing clearly the charges that have taken place in the principles advocated by the Democratic party from time to time, as well as their present position; contrast-ing it with that of the Republican party. Ques-tions had been propounded to Mr. Wastburn as to bis willinguess to vote for the repeal of the Eugitive Slave Law, for the Abolition of Slavers in the District of Columbia, and against the admission of any more Slave States into the Union to which he repited distinctly and omphatically, that he was ready to vote for the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law; for the Abolition of Slavery in the District of Columbia, and would never vote for the admission of any more Slave States. His remarks were plain, distinct, and clearly understood, while his position on every point was defined in columbia. was defined in so clear a manner as to admit of no misrepresentation.

In order to bring Judge Dunn to a discussion of the issues of the present day, Mr. Washburn propounded to him several questions involving his position, in regard to issues which divide the Democratic party, all of which were answered Democratic party, all of which were answered with so many its, and ands, and provided always, as to leave it next to impossible for any one to understand his position, or, more properly, such as to leave it quite convenient for his heavers to construe his answers to suit themselves.

We listened with much attention, and our conclusions at the close of his remarks were, that clusions at the close of his remarks were, that Judge Dunn is an out and out Buchanan Demo-Judge Dunn is an out and out suchanan Demo-erat—that he endorses the most ultra pro-slavery views of the Administration, and the Supreme Court, and, if in Congress, would act in concert with Mr. Buchanan and his friends in carrying them out. We admit our surprise at what we are forced believe to be Judge Duan's position on the Slavery question, after listening to his remarks on Friday evening. If our views are erroneous, we would glarily lay before our readers the answers of the Judge to the questions propounded by Mr. Washburn; but with our present understanding of those answers, we can arrive at no other camelusions. We admit our surprise at what we are forced

The concluding remarks of Judge Dunn cc-cupied about an hour and a half—giving him more than twice the time occupied by Mr. Washburn—in all of which he manifested much tact and ingenuity, well calculated to impress the audience with the fact that he is an able lawrer, well skilled in the management of knotty cases.—Mineral Point Tribune Sept. 28.

Joung man rose up—gave one look toward the platform at the head of the stairs, and fell down swooning, for the half crown pieces jingled upon the floor—rebounded and fell again,—two banches were turned over, the ends of the planks, which they supported, dropped down, and the corpes was distinctly heard to slide along the inclined plane. The listeners all sprang to their feet, under an impulse to make their escape, but they durat not pass the dreaded nistform, so impressed were they with the certainty (as they all afterward testified before the investigating committee.) that Andrew Allen would appear in the door of his chamber, and implore them not to leave him. Long before deslight the house was again thronged. A crowd rushed up stairs, to the great relief of the watchers, who hastened to acquaint them with what had occurred.—
Great excitement began to be manifested. The people needed some one to lead them, and no one had the courage to approach with the intention of opening the door of the terrible apart

"Rin for the curate! in for the curate!"

This good man, a Mr. Handwide, lived in a neighboring hamlet, preferring the quiet he enjoyed there to the noise in the busy town of Haddington. He is still slive and beloved by every body; but since his participation in the mysterious horrors of the third night, he has been rogarded as a man having knowledge of thirgs which no motial ought to possess.

He chearfully obeyed the summons, and repaired to the blacksmith's house. It was now after sourise. The people gathered around their paster and told him what had happened. He poused a moment, in deep meditation, and then entered the chamber. No more than three persons accompanied him—the others, as each one passed their bands over their eyes and fled into the street, uttering loud ciles.

Frew Allan, were found thrown some distance from where they originally stood, as if they had been kicked with some violance. The dead body was consequently in a half sitting poetere. The eyes were sgain opened, and this time gazing at something ettil nearer—very much nearer than what he had stared at on the previous night. The hands were unlocked and thrust forward, as if to implore or resist; the physiognomy, without any change in the facial lines, betokened the most agonizing alarm; while the general attitude inclined the beholder to the besief, that the body had been stifftned in a atgeneral attitities inclined the beholder to the belief, that the body had been stiffthed in an arttempt to rise up and make its escape. Some of

The news had by this time spread in every direction. Persons came from Edinburg and Glasgow. Orawis poured in from the neighboring towns and hamlets until, at 12 o'clock, to streets of Haddington could not hold them. No doubt more than a thousand pursons visited the room up stains in the blacksmith's house, and hundreds offered to watch with Mr. Handysido, and secompany him into the dead man's chamber at the first unusual sound, (for such was the curate's purpose, frequently avowed in the course curate's purpose, frequently avowed in the course cometance as a warning against dissoluteness.—

He read such passages from his Bible as had a bearing upon the Personality of the Informal being; and impressed them upon the minds of his hearers, by repeating, with a happy cumpha-sis, the sublime paraphrases of Milton:

"Forthwith apright herears from off the pool His mighty stature; on each hand the flames Driven backward, slope their politing spires, and rolled In billows, teave in the midst a borrid vale. Then with expanded wings to steers his flight Aleft, incumbent on the dusky air—"

But soon they heard another noise, like the dragging if a human body over the floor. The four men cried in a loud voice—but such a cry! In its spasmodic quivering it counded like laughter, and from the througed streets a yell of home e ma to show symptoms of doubt,

"An'are ye sure, Archie," he asked, "you're na telling me a pack o'lees?"

They had not given their consin in the adjoining nome a single thought. They could not disguise the fact, (nobody could) that they were glad that he was dead; smothering their gratication, however, under the old comforting maxim, "it was well the puir body was telleved o' his sufferin." The night dragged on. Archie continued his amstory reminiscences to the great annyance of Jamle, until the town clock "strak the twal"—it was midnight.
